With SOHO AUDIO LINK

Are you tired of your headphone adaptors and splitters always mysteriously going missing? Need a pair of headphones that even the most enthusiastic student can't break? Soho Sounds has the ideal headphone solution for your classroom!

Each unit has a dual cable system built in with both a 6.3mm large jack, perfect for keyboards, amplifiers, etc, and the standard 3.5mm jack for connecting to laptops, recording devices and more. Also hardwired into every pair is a "link unit" with a 3.5mm socket acting as an integrated splitter, providing you with the option to connect two or more headphones to one output source.

Soft foam padding and a fully adjustable, virtually unbreakable polypropylene housing in smart black, these headphones have everything you need in a busy education environment.

Customer testimonials

"They provide exactly what I need to be able to supply sound from both a keyboard and computer without having to switch any sockets around, which is great for saving time and resource wear and tear."

Richard Cull, Head of Music

"We bought these headphones due to their durability and ease of use in a classroom setting, including transferability between different devices without the need for additional splitters or connectors. They are the headphones that every music teacher has been waiting for!"

Jonathan Turner, Director of Music

"I purchased these headphones as they solved two ongoing issues that we had in our music department. Firstly, these headphones are practical for both computer-based sessions and keyboard sessions without the need for additional adapters, due to having both jack inputs. Secondly it has removed the need for us to purchase splitters, which was an ongoing cost for the department. For our purposes, it is 3 products, rolled into one."

Matthew Edwards, Music Technician

"Having used the headphones for over a week now, the simple design allows multiple students to connect to one device easily seamlessly. They are well built, the cables feel solid and the best part is they completely negate the need for splitters, saving both time and money. Brilliant product and recommended highly for school and music institutes."
